WISCONSIN'S GOOD FORTUNE

Residents of Wisconsin should consider it as their good fortune that the milk strike which had been causing so much trouble has lost official status. There may be further disorders in isolated instances, but the cooperative milk pool has withdrawn its support.

It will be impossible for dairy farmers and state officials to remove the grievances at the bottom of the disturbance immediately. But they will be able to work more rapidly and effectively in an atmosphere of peace. Broken heads and bodies wouldn't have helped their progress.

Had the strike been permitted to continue, Wisconsin would have become subject to the close and critical scrutiny invariably turned on a state which has recourse to military tactics to settle an internal disturbance. Ohio knows well the perils of using troops to maintain order among its residents.

Fortunately, the ugly phrase "organized rebellion," which had been applied to the activities of Wisconsin farmers, was not allowed to come into wide use. At the moment when the threat had become greatest, it was removed by conference of officials and strike leaders. It is good to know that guns and clubs will be removed from sight in the gently rolling hills of a state which could pass for Utopia in the springtime—and which will be close to Utopian if intelligence is permitted to solve the problems which have taken from farmers much of the joy of working on some of America's best farmland.

GERMANY'S NEW POSITION

When the history of the times is written, space will be given to Germany's new position taken during the last week. No matter to what end current events lead, it will be important that the humbled loser of the World War dared to be first to accept the MacDonald plan.

By so doing, the Germans have thrown down a challenge to the victors which they cannot ignore without losing face. The nations allied in opposition to the central powers have talked much about disarmament. They forced Germany to disarm while they increased their own armaments in violation of their promise. But now it is Germany which scores the telling stroke by shaming them into admitting that there no longer is anything in their way—if they really be sincere.

The world disarmament conference at Geneva, convened after more than a decade of shameful procrastination, has been a hypocritical sham, not by intention but as the inevitable result of irreconcilable viewpoints. Last summer it was former President Hoover who saved it from collapse with his proposal of a one-third reduction in armaments. This spring it is President Roosevelt who saves it with a plea for action and a plan on which to start. Germany, both by the speech of Chancellor Hitler and by subsequent acceptance of the MacDonald plan, which offers the best starting point, has continued the good work.

A situation has been created in which the conference either must reach acceptable decisions or condemn by failure the policy of governments which ostensibly favor disarmament. Public opinion against the folly of crushing nations under the fear and expense of preparations for war has been quickened once more. It will not be kind to any government which stands in the path to success. The reversal which has placed Germany in a sympathetic light is a powerful factor that may be the means of breaking up the jam of frustration into which the conference has wedged itself by endless talking and no action.

Roosevelt World Leader in Cause of Peace

Issuing a clarion call to fifty-four nations all over the world, President Franklin D. Roosevelt recently made the greatest appeal for peace that the world ever has seen. To each of the nations, the President addressed his plea that it curtail armaments at once under the plan of Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, and that it pledge itself against sending armed forces across its frontiers. Above are six important figures in world affairs who play important roles in shaping the policies of their respective governments. It is significant that President Roosevelt included Josef Stalin, head of the Russian Soviets, to which the United States, so far, has denied recognition, in his appeal.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE.

NEW YORK, May 22—Diary of a modern Peppys: Up, carrying Major Dickson's Pekinese puppy to Buff Cobb, Brody's daughter, Pat. Then strolling by the clock and sag of the East River and through Sutton Place a workman crying a pox on me for stepping on his newly laid cement. So to my typing.

By and by, George Rector stopped in, his countenance always suggesting the man in the moon, and we fell to a game—some discussion of the best foods and upon his departure sneaked out and raided the ice box. Came Henry Sell atwitter over that thin brochure called "No Nice Girl Swoons."

The Karl Kitchens and Robert Garlands to dinner and they away to a play and my wife and Will and Jessie Hays to a news reel. Afterward to a drug store fountain and, becoming suddenly riotously drunk with prosperity, spent 68 cents at a penny sale. Then home, dressing for the box voyage to Lady Furness.

Such natty blades as Francis Lederer, Basil Durant and Tommy Manville sport wider shoulders than ever with pinched-in waists dropping in straight line from the hips. Rooney sleeves also taper to a tight wrist. Favorite color appears to be tobacco brown with bottle green shirtwaists. Too, I notice several tony dressers in ex-King Alphonso's newest combination—a suit of fog grey with collar and shirt to match and jet black tie. O. yes, also a black silk display handkerchief.

That quality Thackeray described as New York's "uncommon splendorousness" is vanishing at the luncheon hour. Hundreds who used to ride in limousines, swaying with orchids, "how walk unadorned." Instead of cocktails and jazz there are beer and strains of Johann Strauss. The cozy dollar-for-celery-and-olives places are deserted for barn-like spots with a hat rack near each table.

T. S. Stribling, whose "The Store" was this year's Pulitzer prize winner, comes up from the South every summer to spend a few weeks in his flat overlooking that patch of greenery and rocky outcrop called Morningside Park. With all his success, he has never given up turning out seven moral tales weekly for a Sunday school paper.

Personal nomination for the most stately calm among the younger matrons—that of Ellen Mackay Berlin.

There appear no more pianists whose light improvisations gave such natchahe to stage and drawing rooms. I think of Melville Ellis and Edith Baker, but there were others. Eddie Duchin is perhaps the sole exception, but he devotes most of his talents to leading an orchestra. Pianists today are in two classes—ivory thumpers or those who strive to be Paderewskis. Those in the middle groove have vanished.

PILES ALL GONE IN ONE WEEK

The modern Internal Treatment—One Bottle (Tablets) Must Bring Blessed Relief or Money Back

Read what this Buffalo man writes—it seems like a miracle. "Have been troubled with bleeding and protruding piles for 30 years—was about to go to hospital when a friend told me about Hem-Roid. After the first week of treatment I have no signs of piles and feel like a different person." (Name on request.)
Hem-Roid is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt and is such a wonderful one that thousands who once suffered agony and distress are now free from torturing piles. You can get Hem-Roid tablets at J. H. Lease Drug Co. or any live drugist and if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives you—money back.

Hobbies Are Relaxing and Healthful
I recently visited a home where the children of my most entertaining me by showing their collection of stamps, shells and flowers. The boy, with his assortment of stamps, was only ten years of age. He was happy with his hobby and had a lot to say about distant parts of the globe. I am confident he learned more about geography from his stamp collection than from his school atlas.

Dr. Copeland

These children were enthusiastic about their hobbies. The parents were proud of their children's accomplishments and encouraged them in every way. I was pleased with this picture because it is my firm belief that hobbies are beneficial for the child as well as the adult.

Relax Mind and Body

Many neurologists claim that hobbies prevent severe emotional and physical distress. They claim that fewer cases of nervous breakdown would occur if more of us had real hobbies. Hobbies are beneficial because they relax the mind, nerves and body. The child, man or woman who has a hobby is indeed fortunate.

I am often asked what type of hobby I recommend. This is difficult to answer. A certain hobby may appeal to one person and prove unattractive to another. One man may devote all his time to golf, whereas another man will cultivate an interest in old books or pictures. One child may collect stamps, and another may delight in tinkering with radios, motors or chemicals.

A hobby must be developed and not forced. So far as health is concerned, it is only successful if it furnishes enjoyment, pleasure and gratification. It must be a soothing pastime if it is to relieve the everyday strain of life.

May Disclose Talents

Bear in mind that the child who has a hobby carries through life a weapon against idle hours and misdirected energy. As in the home I visited, children derive knowledge from a hobby knowledge which is sometimes difficult to teach at school. A hobby may disclose talent in literature, music, painting, drawing or writing.

Many parents realize the value of a hobby and are prompted to ask how one can be developed. As a rule, a hobby just comes of itself, by accident probably. Parents can aid their children by directing them and guiding them in whatever special interests they display.

Encourage hobbies! It is not necessary to have expensive equipment or special training. A minimum of expense and equipment usually leads to the most enjoyable and successful experiences.

till four.
"We came in early Sarah, and I shopped quicker than I thought I should."
"He's head over ears in a hamper in the coach-house. Never knew such a gentleman to do things for himself. And as considerate as a curate."
"Wait a few weeks, and we'll give them another dig just when they are beginning to settle down comfortably. In birching a boy, Boxall, you shouldn't lay it on too fast. Give him time to think between the strokes, and to wonder when the next is coming. That was just a rap to begin with."

It was late October, and the yellow leaves were falling from the Lombardy poplars on the road near Josiah Crabbe's house. At Eve's Corner, Mrs. Sarah Loosely went to and fro in Wolfe's sitting-room, a busy primness on her mouth. Visitors were to be there to tea, and the lace doilies on the dishes took an immense amount of delicate attention. It had been said that Heaven would have to be the perfection of tidiness, or Mrs. Loosely would not consent to remain there. Palm branches would be sloped like muckets on parade, halves tilted at precisely the same angle.

Wolfe was busy in the coach-house, diving into the depths of a monster hamper. Yellow straw and wisps of paper lay piled about, and files of bottles, green and blue, stood crowded like a mob along one wall. He was unpacking drugs that had arrived that morning from a firm of manufacturing chemists whom Josiah Crabbe had recommended.

His brown hands were groping in the bottom of the hamper when the door-bell rang. The clinking together of two bottles at the same moment masked the sound for him. There were greetings under the white Georgian porch between Mrs. Loosely and two visitors.
"Well, Sarah, it is a long while since I saw you. You don't look a day older."
"I don't feel it."
"Here's Jess getting long in the legs."
Mrs. Loosely pecked at Jess's cheek.
"You are getting quite grown up, my dear!"
Jess laughed. Mrs. Loosely put it as though growth was a new and amazing phenomenon.
"Mayn't I grow? I'm seventeen."
"You ought to have your hair up."
"Oh—bother!"
"Wolfe's not expecting you."

SCHOOL NEWS AND VIEWS

Interesting Items For Students, Teachers and Parents

BY RALPH LONG, JR.
Junior High

The winners of the "Shrubbery Preservation" poem contest sponsored by the Schibblers club were announced today. Robert Hostetter was the winner in the eighth grade while Priscilla Mullins was selected in the seventh grade. Ruth Wright, Jean McCarthy, Donald Kraus and Jane Metzger of the eighth grade and Edna Kraus, Elsi Hymer, Betty Morris and Aylene Mellinger of the seventh grade received honorable mention.

The winning poems:
Preserve Our Shrubs
As I walked past our school one day,
I saw some men plant shrubbery gay.
But children from our Junior High
Made paths through them and made them die.

But now we have more planted there,
To live they'll need the children's care.
So come! Let's show our courage high
And we our school will beautify.
—Robert Hostetter.

Use of the Hedge
The passerby strolls along,
Whistling his merry song.
It's a lovely day in May
And the wood nymphs are at play.

The hedges are a lovely green,
Standing stately like a queen.
They are a fairy symbol
Of fingers that are nimble.

"I may as well tell you at once,
Mr. Wolfe, why I have come to call on you. The fact is, I have been thinking over that conversation we had some time ago. I don't know that I am altogether easy in my mind."

Wolfe's heart went out suddenly to the older man. There was a labelling of the heavy wheels of Fleming's mind. His handsome face had an expression of doubt, and of distress.

"Won't you sit down?"
"I can talk better standing."
"You are referring to the talk we had on the health of the town?"
"Yes."

Wolfe leant one shoulder against the window casing. Fleming was like a man trying to walk in deep mud, and Wolfe felt a desire to stretch out a hand to him.
"I shall only be too glad to give you any information but as things stand—"
Fleming's eyes turned to him expectantly.
"Ah, that's where I feel my difficulty. My impression is that there is an aggressive and bellicose spirit at work in the town."

Wolfe's mouth grew sterner.
"I think I told you, sir, that there are times when a man must fight."
"Then, you allow—"
"I allow that I am against all compromise, and that there is a certain public spirit growing here that means to force reform."

"A few Radicals, eh?"
"I don't think you ought to put it that way. Besides, such a taunt cuts back."
"You are right; I withdraw. But are you determined to be bitter? I say bitter—because—well, it's human nature."
"It is not bitterness with me, but I can assure you it is war, if that is what you wish to know."

SQUARE OFF FOR SALES TAX BOUT

Legislators Lining Up For Final Tilt On White Proposal

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., May 22—Lines were drawn in the legislature today for a final battle over Governor White's sales tax bill.

After a week-end of hurried conferences, the administration forces squared away for a last thrust intended to overcome opposition and have the measure reported out by the house taxation committee to-night when the law-makers reconvene. Opponents, however, were equally as determined to keep the bill from the house floor although the committee last week defeated a motion to kill the measure outright.

Confident of Approval
Confidence that the committee would recommend passage was voiced by Senator William M. Goodwin, staunch administration supporter, who introduced the bill after the special joint taxation committee rejected it.

Friends of the proposed levy based their hopes for ultimate approval on the fact the coupon collection plan has been eliminated. The coupon feature caused much of the bitter opposition to the tax, described by Governor White as the only certain method of obtaining immediate revenue to operate the schools and provide unemployment relief.

While some foes of the bill said it might be sent to the house without recommendation by the committee, none conceded its passage by the legislature. As a result, Senator D. J. Gunsett (D) of Van Wert county, chairman of the senate taxation committee, and other legislators are preparing to submit new programs.

Gunsett has formulated tentative legislation calling for an earned income tax, a luxury or "nuisance" tax, increased diversion of gasoline taxes, and diversion of additional revenue from intangible taxes to local subdivisions.

Must Consider Budget
Besides taxation, the legislature still must consider the $40,000,000 biennial budget before June 8, the date set tentatively for final adjournment. Finance Director Howard L. Bevis said the budget must be trimmed to $36,000,000 to keep within estimated revenues. The larger sum does not provide for schools or the care of crippled children, these items being left for inclusion in the taxation program.

Unfinished business before the legislature includes the old age pension bill, an unemployment insurance plan, amendments to the horse race betting law, and minimum wage legislation.

A dinner was served. There was a birthday cake for each of the honorees. The hours were enjoyed socially.

BOY'S SCREAMS FOIL KIDNAPING
Brother Yells As "Bloomer Woman," Nude Man Attempt To Abduct Girl

(By Associated Press)
DENVER, May 22—Piercing screams of a brother thwarted the kidnaping of 8-year-old Betty Lee O'Dell by a woman described by the children as nearly nude and a man entirely unclad.

Continuing their investigation of the abduction reported attempted early Sunday morning while the parents of the children were absent, officers said they believed the woman was mentally unbalanced or the leader of a nudist cult.

Elwood, 14, told police he was awakened by someone tearing a screen from a window. He arose and went into a hallway where he said he saw a woman, clad only in bloomers and with black hair in disorder hanging about her shoulders, creeping toward his sister's room.

Too frightened to cry aloud, he said he watched until the woman with the child clasped to her breast left by a rear door. Then he screamed.

As he ran to the door, he reported he saw the woman, and a nude man, flee down an alley, leaving the child on the ground. Police, summoned by neighbors aroused by the youth's cries, found no trace of the pair but reported finding prints of bare feet in the yard. The girl has a bruise on her neck where someone apparently had clutched her.

A 7-months old sister of Betty and Elwood, and another child, a friend of Betty, were in the R. L. O'Dell home at the time of the attempted abduction.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Sharkey and Mr. and Mrs. K. B. McNutt of Toledo were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Sharkey, Ellsworth rd., over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zellmer, Cleveland, spent the weekend with Mrs. Zellmer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McCave, Wilson st.

Mrs. Frances Colley and Miss Mary Burton of Salem visited Sunday with friends at Ligonier, Pa.

William McClain, of Salem, spent the weekend in Pittsburgh on business.

through which the nation has been passing cannot be blamed on nature, but are due to man's mismanagement of the social fabric of which we are a part.

"Five or six years ago some people did not seem to need God at all and lived as though they were entirely independent," Kirk told his audience. He contrasted the old method with present conditions in which men are having to make readjustments and set a new estimate of life.

"Circumstances make us see things differently and they give us a new attitude."

So far as agriculture is concerned the banking system of the country has broken down, in the opinion of the speaker. "If we in this period are able to establish a system of financing that will hold up under similar economic conditions that may come in the future, it will be worth some of the loss and tragedies of the present time," Kirk stated.

Education Is Problem
"Education is one of the most serious problems which we are facing today. School problems need more earnest attention than they have been given in the past," he said.

Kirk predicts "a holiday" in highway construction. He is of the opinion that it would be possible to get more efficiency in highway construction as well as in the educational system.

Speaking of the source of taxes, Kirk said "I think it is about time we made a shift." He would relieve home owners of some of their burden of taxes and have a tax placed on incomes, instead.

"We are facing a situation in America that is more tense than at any other time, and possibly the destiny of the nation may depend on groups like this," Kirk told the grangers.

Rev. James Gilbert, Alliance, R. D., gave a Mother's day talk, using for his subject "Our Debt of Gratitude." Rev. Gilbert paid a fine tribute to motherhood.

"When mother breaks down morally and spiritually the home breaks down," the speaker told his audience. "One of the things that is wrong with the youth of today is the older people," he said. He is of the opinion that the young people have not been given the right kind of leadership.

Instrumental music was contributed by Emerson Conrad and children, Nelson, Juanita and Virginia, and Frank Pults. June Chamberlain gave a humorous reading.

Willow Grove grange was on the county honor roll for having the largest attendance.

Harriman to Get New Bail or Face Stay In Prison
(By Associated Press)

MINEOLA, N. Y., May 22—Joseph W. Harriman, banker whose quest for death proved vain, may have to raise new bail or go to jail to await trial on charges of falsifying his bank's books.

Two agents of a bonding company stood today over the hospital room where the founder of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company is recovering from a stab wound he inflicted on himself after vanishing from a Manhattan nursing home.

They said that acting under a 183-year-old judicial ruling, they would seize him as soon as he is well, take him before a federal judge and demand that his $25,000 bail be invalidated. The ruling provides that a bailed person is the prisoner of those who stand his surety.

Harriman originally was to go to trial today for what the government calls a falsification amounting to more than $1,500,000, but his attorney said he had obtained prosecution consent for a week's adjournment.

Physicians said Harriman's wound was so slight he would be released shortly. He vanished last Friday. The next day he was found in a Roshlyn, N. Y., inn. As Inspector Harold R. King of Nassau county waited for him to dress for the journey to New York, he plunged a kitchen knife into his chest, but it struck a rib and the cut proved to be not serious.

Adolphe Luque, 43 Next August, Still Merits Rank Among Greatest Pitchers

BY JOHN C. HOFFMAN
International News Service
Sports Writer

CHICAGO, May 22—Although he will be 43 years old next August, Adolphe Luque is still a dependable member of the New York Giants pitching staff.

Luque, whose cunning and guile on the pitching mound have stamped him as one of the most unusual pitchers in baseball, was given up for lost at the close of the 1931 season when he drew his unconditional release from the Brooklyn club. But the New York Giants didn't think he was through and subsequently proved the theory by using the venerable Cuban in 38 games during the season last year. Six of these Luque won for the New York club.

Luque is a Cuban and was born in Havana, where he learned his baseball. He won recognition from United States baseball scouts while with the Havana club in 1911 and was signed the following year by Long Branch of the New York-New Jersey league. He had a brief trial with the Boston Braves in 1913, but concluded the season with Long Branch, winning 2 games for a percentage of 81½.

Two subsequent major league trials with Boston found him finishing the 1915 season with Toronto, where he won 15 games and lost 2.

Luque was then released to Louisville for the 1916 season. He remained with the Louisville club until the close of the short season in 1918 and was sold to the Cincinnati club, where he pitched creditably for 1½ years. Adolphe had his best year in 1927, when he won 27 games and lost eight.

In 1930 he was traded to Brooklyn for Douglas McWeeny, winning 14 games for the Dodgers. Luque is only 5 feet 10 inches tall, but he is strong and especially distressing to the opposition during the hot summer months. Most pitchers fear the sap-straining qualities of mid-summer heat, but with the blood of his ancestors in him Luque can weather any requirements the heat may ask of him.

Not unlike Quinn, Faber and Rixey, Luque is a stickler for condition and is of the plunger type, he built.

goes his way quietly, but effectively.

With the Giants this spring he was given ample time to condition himself for the championship season. Manager Bill Terry permitted the veteran to use his own conditioning methods. Luque will do a major portion of the relief hurling for the Giants this season. And he probably will do it well.

IRVING BURNS, Browns—Hit double and two singles, scored three runs and stole a base against Yankees.

JIM ELLIOTT, Phillies, and JIM BOTTOMLEY, Reds—Elliott pitched out his ball to win first game. Bottomley drove in two runs in second.

WALTER MILLER, White Sox—Shut out Senators with two hits.

FRANK FRISCH, Cardinals—Hit five singles in double victory over Giants.

LOYD BROWN, Red Sox—Pitched six hit shutout against Tigers and cut off one run with fast fielding.

GABBY HARTNETT, Cubs—Hit four times and drove in two runs. In doubleheader against Dodgers.

Columbia, Prospect

Win In Grade Loop

Columbia and Prospect at school teams were victorious in grade school games played Saturday.

Columbia defeated McKinley, 7-2, then dropped a 9-7 decision to Prospect.

Deck Attacked Workers

BEND, Ore.—A mallard duck, whose setting of eggs was strategically located in an important part of the Shevlin-Hixon lumber mill, almost upset plans for reopening the mill. She attacked all workers who came near her nest and refused to be budged from it. The problem finally was solved by moving the planks upon which her nest was built.

CARDINALS TAKE 2 FROM GIANTS; CHISOX WIN, 6-0

St. Louis Advances to 3rd Place in National League Race

(By Associated Press)

The St. Louis Cardinals appear either to have found a bunch of easy victims in the eastern clubs of the National league or they must be regarded as the up and coming club of the circuit.

It may be the acquisition of Leo Durocher to plug a weak spot in their inner defense and the start of Pepper Martin's great hitting streak was just what the Cards needed to send them off on the victorious path. The fact remains that since they began playing the eastern teams about three weeks ago they have won 12 games, lost six and risen from seventh place in the standing to third.

Beat Giants Twice

A double triumph over the New York Giants yesterday, 2 to 1, and 8 to 4, left them just a half game behind the second place New York Yankees and 3½ behind the pace setting Pittsburgh Pirates. Pittsburgh, coupled with Boston, had an off day.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, recent holders of third, dropped to fifth place by the sudden comeback of the Chicago Cubs, who beat them twice, 7-6 and 6-3, to run their string to four straight victories.

Cincinnati's Reds gained the fourth spot by splitting a bargain bill with the Phillies. They bunched five hits off Snipe Hansen in the fifth to win 4-2 after bowing to Jim Elliott's six hit hurling as the Phils took the opened 3-1.

Chisox Blank Senators

The White Sox and Browns, leaders of the current western invasion in the American, staged simultaneous advances in the standing on the strength of expert pitching and some heavy hitting to go with it.

Chicago moved to third place, a few points ahead of the Cleveland Indians, who were idle at Philadelphia, when Walter Miller, veteran flinger, made his first start of the season and set the Washington Senators down with two singles to win 6-0. The Browns went into sixth place as they made it two straight over the New York Yankees, 8 to 4.

The Red Sox, scrappy tail enders, aided the Brown's advance by taking their second straight triumph over Detroit, 2 to 0.
